THREE-SIXTY ADVISORY GROUP RECRUITS
JAY GOSS AS MANAGING DIRECTOR

PASADENA, CA. – October 1, 2016 – Three-Sixty Advisory Group, LLC (Three-Sixty), a business accelerator for emerging healthcare and technology companies, has announced the appointment of seasoned early stage company executive Jay Goss as its Managing Director. Founded in 2007 to help healthcare and technology clients speed their time to value, the company has tapped Goss to both develop new business and to offer clients high-level insight and access to key relationships.

“We are delighted to have Jay on board, essentially giving Three-Sixty a major injection of entrepreneurial know-how and leadership that our clients seek,” said John G. Nackel, Ph.D., Founder, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Three-Sixty Advisory Group. “Jay brings a wealth of experience working with wide array of young companies – from pre-Seed through Series B funded firms.”

With more than 20 years of experience working directly inside early stage companies, helping them to commercialize and go-to-market, Goss is able to attract and service the type of companies that Three-Sixty provides accretive value. Goss has held leadership roles with a dozen early stage companies, including several in the healthcare sector – Kumba Health, ClickOfTime Technologies, RxVantage and WellCaster. In addition to working entrepreneurially, he has also been “embedded” inside large corporations (The Walt Disney Company and Reed Elsevier) in an “intrapreneurial” capacity, building new business units on their behalf.

About Three-Sixty Advisory Group
